Find out more

Dear Mrs. Schulz,

In light of the economic downturn, with the graduate recruitment market more competitive than ever, London Business School's Masters in Management gives you the business knowledge, capabilities and skills to increase your career choices.

Specifically designed for recent graduates with less than one year of full-time work experience, the Masters in Management is a transformational degree from our top-ranked business school. Over 11 months of study, the comprehensive programme will expand your thinking and provide you with the foundations for a successful career in business.

The Masters in Management has been uniquely developed in consultation with top graduate recruiters and the curriculum therefore focuses on the key skill and knowledge areas that employers demand.

Additionally, the Career and Professional Development modules integrated within the programme will provide you with assistance in your career evaluation and job search, bringing you into contact with top companies and ensuring that you have the best possible employment opportunities available to you upon graduation.
